

MEMories and EXperiences for inclusive digital storytelling (2019-2022)

The participants of the Royal Palace of Caserta tell their stories!

Live stream on March 9th for the MEMEX project!

On March 9th, at 5.00pm CET, the participants of the workshops organized in Reggia Di Caserta will tell their stories live!

In December, the “ReggiaCard 2021” subscribers who accepted the Museum's invitation took part in five workshop meetings to tell their experiences and memories and elaborate personal and engaging digital stories. The goal was to build narrations composed of personal memories, photos, videos, and elements of cultural heritage to be shared with the community. Collections of stories that will partly flow into the MEMEX app, adding to other stories created in different European contexts (Lisbon, Barcelona, and Paris). This valuable experience is part of the participatory process started with the modification of the UNESCO Site Management Plan of the Royal Palace.

On March 9th, at 5.00 pm, on the Facebook and YouTube channels of the Royal Palace of Caserta, the protagonists of these exciting stories will "tell" them live for the first time, and backstage details and curiosities will be revealed. An opportunity to participate in the history of the Vanvitellian Complex, a World Heritage Site, a lively museum at the service of society and its development.

MEMEX is a three-year project (2019-2022) funded by the Horizon2020 program of the European Union, which aims to promote social cohesion through collaborative and digital tools linked to cultural heritage. At the Royal Palace of Caserta, the process was guided by ECCOM, an organization that operates in the cultural sector to promote participation and social inclusion.
